SCIENCE NOTES

Coleophora pruniella Clemens, a Casebearer New to the Okanagan Valley
(Lepidoptera: Coleophoridae)

When Mr. Alex Watt, Horticultural Branch, British Columbia Department of Agriculture, West Summerland, was visiting an orchardist at Trout Creek Point, Summerland, in 1954, he noticed a number of cherry leaves showing an unusual type of injury, presumably caused by an insect. On visiting the orchard, I found that the cause of the trouble was a casebearer, subsequently identified by Dr. T. N. Freeman, Entomology Division, Ottawa, as the cherry casebearer, Coleophora pruniella Clem. This is the first known record of this species for the Okanagan Valley of British Columbia.

The first and only other recorded occurrence of C. pruniella for the Province was at Creston in 1947 (Waddell, 1952).*

Several hundred mature casebearer larvae were collected on June 18 and kept in an insectary. Moths and parasites began emerging two weeks later; parasitism was approximately 0.75 per cent. Dr. W. R. M. Mason, Entomology Division, Ottawa, identified the parasites as Bracon gelechiae Ashm. and Agathis sp. near conspicuus (Wesm.). These species were not reported by Waddell (1952) among 23 species of Hymenoptera listed as parasitic on larvae and pupae of the cherry casebearer.
